— SEE OFFICE ACTION ON THE FOLLOWING PAGES —

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 1-8 drawn to a composition comprising bacteria and yeast, classified in Class 435, subclass 42, for example.

II. Claim 9 drawn to a process of improving the health of a mammal by administering bacteria, yeast, and protein classified in Class 424, subclass 93.3, for example.

III. Claim 10 drawn to a process of reducing lactose intolerance in humans by administering bacteria and yeast, classified in Class 426, subclass 62, for example.

IV. Claim 11 drawn to a process of preserving foods by adding a stable dried bacteria and yeas compositions, classified in Class 424, subclass 262, for example.

Inventions I, respectively II/III and IV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be used in at least three materially different process of using that product as adequately demonstrated by groups II, III and IV, which require different subjects and different process steps as well as produce different effects. Moreover, the product can be used in the production of biomass or for bread or cookie dough.

The method of Group I is directed to a conventional method of improving health of mammals by administering of a composition; Group II is directed to a method of reducing lactose intolerance is humans by administering a composition; Group III is directed to a method of preserving foods by adding a variety of different compositions. These methods are distinct both physically and functionally, require different process steps and produce different effects. They may require different microorganisms in different amounts.

The several inventions above are independent and distinct, each from the other. They have acquired a separate status in the art as a separate subject for inventive effect and require independent searches (as indicated by the different classification). The search for each of the above inventions is not co-extensive particularly with regard to the literature search. Further, a reference which would anticipate the invention of Group I would not necessarily anticipate or make obvious the any of the other groups.

For these reasons restriction for examination purposes is proper.

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 C.F.R. § 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a diligently-filed petition under 37 C.F.R. § 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 C.F.R. § 1.17(h).
